

Abstract

Disclosed is an electronic control device (21) for watering plants, comprising at least one electronic moisture sensor (1) based on a moisture-sensitive capacitor (5) for measuring the moisture of the dirt. Said capacitor is provided with a dielectric (8) whose dielectric coefficient changes when moisture penetrates thereinto.